China's Sinopec Zhenhai Refining & Chemical plans to shut its naphtha-fed steam cracker at Zhenhai, Zhejiang province, from H2 May until end-June for scheduled maintenance, sources close to the company Tuesday said.

The cracker, which will be shut for about 40-45 days, is able to produce 1 million mt/year of ethylene, 550,000 mt/year of propylene and 180,000 mt/year of butadiene.
